England Will Lay Herself Out to Make Them Happy and to Assure an Alliance with Italy-The Prince of Water to Be Entertained by the Earl of Lonsdale, Who Made the Kalser's Visit Gorgeous

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUK.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—According to arrangement made before the commencement of the series of scares which have been perturbing the world, the King and Queen of Italy are to visit England next May and stay for about a week. They would in any case have a cordial welcome, but John Bull will now make very much indeed of them, if he has an opportunity, which is not altogether certain in view of all the circumstances which have arisen since the invitation was given. If the royal couple should come their visit would undoubtedly be made the occasion of big demonstrations of Anglo-Italian friendship, and the alliance so often talked of will be assured.

The Prince of Wales will go to Lowther Castle, Penrith, next week as the guest of the Earl Lonsdale, and, although the visit is what is known in court parlance as strictly private, which means that his Royal Highness will meet under his host's roof various personal friends without the inconvenient necessity for the court newsman to record the fact, it is on such occasions as these that the Prince thoroughly enjoys himself. The famous baccarat party at Tranby Croft was one of these strictly private visits, and, as all the world subse-quently learned through the vulgar and unpleasant medium of an action at law, the Prince did mightly enjoy himself upon that occasion. Private though the visit may be, it is certain to cost Lord Lonsdale a pretty stiff sum. One would have thought that the £30,000 which he spent a year ago in entertaining the German Emperor would have made him hesitate over the present costly honor: but presumably the rich English nobleman is entitled to please himself in such purely personal matters.

When Emperor William was at Lowther Castle it was the custom for the newspapers here to write enthusiastically about his "thor oughly English ways." He used to get up at ghastly early hours and take a cold bath "just like an Englishman," as the country folk proudly noted, for it is a deep-rooted belief among such people that ordinary foreigners are not familiar with the bath. Then the imperor used to eat cold roast beef for breakfast, which is eminently an English custom, and talk familiarly with gamekeepers, grooms, and the like, which is also characteristic of British Emperor William's letter to his friend, Presi dent Kruger, must therefore have come as a great shock to his English host. The English venes has worn off with surprising quickness, and if Earl Lonsdale is to be made a Marquis the publie announcement thereof will doubtless be deferred to a more fitting occasion.

THE POET LAUREATE.

Morris Hasn't Read Austin's Books and Doesn't Know What Sort of a Poet He Is. LONDON, Jan. 4 .- William Morris, the post, said in an interview that he did not know whether Alfred Austin was a suitable Poet Laureate or not. He never read his books, but annoused he was a decent sort of literary man. The Poet Laureateship was a court office that had been accidentally held by two great poets. He knew that Lord Tennyson had taken the office with reluctance. It was the Queen's right to choose whom she liked, and nobody cared whom she selected

THE BEHRING SEA QUESTION. Reasons Why England Is Delaying Action

LONDON, Jan. 4.-Referring to the Chronicle's statement that the proposed treaty between the United States and Great Britain, providing for a Commission to assess damages sustained by Canadian sealers under the Behring Sea award was being intentionally delayed by the Govern ment in London, one of the high officials of the Foreign Office to-day declared that the pro-posed treaty did not reach the Foreign Office until the second week in December, and that it was impossible to duly consider such an important matter in the midst of the holiday sea-son, especially when more pressing affairs were son, especially when more pressing affairs were occupying the attention of the Government. Before the Government could approve such a Convention the high law officers must examine it and it must have the sanction of the Colonial Secretary, who had had so far, no opportunity to examine it.

The Chronicle's statement that $425,000 was awarded by the Behring Sea Commission is, of course, inaccurate, as no award was made, but the matter was left for subsequent adjustment between the two countries. between the two countries.

The paper says that the American Consular authorities admit that the treatment shown to these importers is in retaliation for measures adopted by Germany which are impeding im-ports from New York into Germany. The Handsizzettung brands the suggestion that the German authorities are hambering American importers as false.

Germany and Our Insurance Companies. BERLIN, Jan. 4.—The prospects of an amicable settlement of the question affecting American insurance companies are improving. The rumor that King Menelek, with his forces, had begun an advance is denied. The Abys-sinian army is still at Dolo.

A Negro Knighted.

LONDON, Jan. 4 .- Among the New Year honors conferred by the Queen was the bestowal of knighthood on Mayor Lewis of Freetown, the capital of Sierra Leone. Constantinopia, Dec. 22.—The Turkish Minister at Washington is reported to have stated to Secretary Olney that Ottoman troops are protecting American missionaries against Armenian rioters, and that the missionaries have thanked the Government for this.

Not the slightest foundation exists for the statement that Turkish troops have anywhere protected missionaries have hanked the Government. No missionaries have been in peril from and none has reported seeing or hearing of Armenians rioters.

The theory of the Turks is that the massacres of Armenians were necessary in order to prevent the Armenians from massacring the Turks. Even the most cowardly among them must see that after 40,000 have been killed, and the rest stripped of all that they possess, there can be no further danger from this ruined people.

It seems, therefore, that the relief associations should press upon the Governments the necessity of securing from the Sultan a proclamation prohibiting the further molestation of Armenians by civilians or officials, and that he direct that all efforts to succor the needy be made.

ADMIRAL BUNCE'S FLEET.

It Is Reported that It Will Be Ordered to

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.- The detention of Admiral Bunce's squadron at Hampton Roads for the last two weeks, although it was ready to begin its cruise promptly on Dec. 21, ac cording to the programme laid down by Secretary Herbert, was at first generally supposed to be due to a reluctance on the part of the Administration to permit even the implied menace of its presence in the West Indies during the excitement following the President's Venezuelan mesage to Congress on Dec. 17. Another explanation, which is not wholly without believers even in the Navy Department, prohas sealed orders, which may at any moment send him with his entire force to the Bospo rus. Even the most conservative officers are disposed to attach some credence to the idea. There are a number of significant facts which, grouped together, seem to give probability to the rumor.

Admiral Selfridge and Minister Terrell have been sending a good many cablegrams to Washington in the last three weeks, and the States and Navy departments have spared no expense in cable bills since early in December pense in cable bills since early in December. On the 16th Secretary Oiney got a cablegram which he paraphrased and sent to Congress, as follows:

"Minister Terrell expreases the gravent apprehensions concerning the ultimate fate of American citizens in the disturbed region, unless the appalling massacres can be stopped by the united efforts of the Christian powers. He sees no hope, however, of a European concert to that end. He says that if the missionarios wish to leave Turkey he can procure their transportation to Christian ports, If the men wish to remain he can get escurt for all to the seacoast, whereupon the men can return; but he adds that the women and children should quit Turkey."

adds that the women and children should quit Turkey."

In the same message to Congress Secretary Olney showed how earnest and active Minister Terrell had been, and what valuable moral support had been given him by the presence of the San Francisco and Marbiehead. Before the arrival of those vessels the Minister's efforts had been utterly unavailing in most instances, and the conditions still further improved when the Minneapolis was ordered to Turkey. Secretary Olney in his report significantly calls Admiral Selfridge an officer whose record indicates the necessary discretion in dealing with whatever emergencies may arise."

The Secretary also says that the damage to

Olney in his report significantly calls Admiral Selfridge an officer whose record indicates the necessary discretion in dealing with whatever emergencies may arise."

The Secretary also says that the damage to the American school in Asia Minor was in the neighborhood of $100,000, and that "the United States Minister has notified the Porte that the Turkish Government would be held responsible for the immediate and full satisfaction of all infuries on that score." The words "immediate and full satisfaction of all infuries on that score." The words "immediate and full satisfaction" constitute a percemptory demand, and non-compliance on the part of Turkey would lead to a back down by the United States unless we were prepared to compel respect by a show of force.

Secretary Olney also told Congress of the burning of the American missionary school of science at Marash on Nov. 18, and declared that Minister Terreil. after prompt investigation, would make a like demand for adequate indemnity. Secretary Olney mentions numerous other instances of serious import.

Naval officers who think Admiral Bunce may have sealed orders which would send him to the Mediterranean in certain emergencies, also point to various coincidences of dates in support of their theory. On Dec. 19 the Admiral came un to Washington from Fort Monroe and had a long consultation at the Navy Department. The same day the official announcement was made that at Minister Terreil's suggestion the United States vessels in Turkish waters should show greater activity in moving from bort to port where American interests were supposed to be in jeopardy, and Admiral Selfridge had been so instructions had been sent to Admiral Selfridge to furnish all protection and comfort to such missionaries as might apply, and almost simultaneously came the press despatch from Turkey that Admiral Selfridge had cabled the Navy Department that he was unable to carry out his instructions, whatever they were, because of insufficient force. The following day Admiral Bunce came to Was

The Turkish Butcheries in Armenia.

TROY, Jan. 4.-Mark Agynlian, an Armenian residing in this city, has received a letter from his wife, who is in Marash, fifteen miles from Zeitun, the scene of an Armenian massacre. The letter says that the woman's brother and two uncles were horribly butchered on Nov. 18 with many others whose names she refrained with many others whose names she refrained from mentioning for fear that the letter might be lost. The people of eight rich homes near the American missionary's house were killed and their houses plundered and burned. A Presbyterian missionary has the choice of death or a change in creed, and, choosing the forner, his body was cut to pieces. The letter makes a piea for money to bring the writer to America, and says that the Armenians have only hay to lie on and nothing to eat.

RURNED HER BOY 10 DEATH.

Mrs. Ellis Set Fire to the House is the NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 4 .- At Sylvarena, Smith county, Miss., the house of Andrew Ellis was destroyed by fire two nights ago, and one child, aged ten years, was burned to death. The fire was of incendiary origin, and the incendiaries in the case were Mrs. Martha Ellis, mother of the boy, and James Gamage, her paramour. Mrs. Ellis left her husband some time ago and was aving with Gamage. The two conspired to kill the deserted husband, and while Mrs. Ellis set fire to the house, Gamage stood hilden at the front door to shoot him as he ran out.

It so happened that Ellis was not at home that night, but her four boys were. Three of them examed from the burning building without serious injury, but the youngest perished in the flames. When Gamage was arrested on suspicion he at once confessed the part he had taken in the crime in the promise that the mob would not hurn him to death. He and Mrs. Ellis were both carried to Raisigh and placed in the county jail to project them from violence. Mrs. Eilis left her husband some time ago and

The Mayor had not noticed a written com-munication the Captain had laid on his desk. Drawing himself up to his full height Mayor Gleason said: "I will attend to your case." "Yes, and I will attend to your case," said the Captain.
"Go home and sleep. You have been doing that for the last three years." said the Mayor.
"I'll do that, too, if I feel like it," was the reloinder.

"I'll do that, too, if I feel like it." was the rejoinder.
With this Capt. Woods bowed hmself out, and the Mayor turned his attention to the communication that had been laid before him. It read as follows:
"Hon. P. J. Uiezon. Mayor:
"Sir: I duly received your communication of Jan. 3, and in answer beg leave to state that, while I have the geatest respect for you, as Mayor of this city, and am desirous of performing my duties as Chief of Police to the letter, yet I find it absolutely impossible to carry out the directions contained in your communication.

"I desire further to say that if it were possible to do as you direct, and in the manner you command, yet I do not understand that you, as Mayor, have the power, under any provision of law in existence, to give me, as Chief of Police, any such orders; but, if you will point out to me that I am mistaken, and the law does authorize you to give them to me, I need hardly say that I will gladly not only carry out those orders, but any others that you, as Mayor, have the lawful power to give me. Very respectfully.

A. S. Woons, Chief of Police."
Then the Mayor grasped the force of the Captain's rec arks when he said he would hereafter take his instructions only from the Police Commissioners. He decided therefore to appoint a Board that would be Gleason from top to bottom. Immediately he named these Police Commissioners:

William Fitzgibbons, Second ward: John T. Grady, Third ward; John Lawlor, Fifth ward. The Mayor also appointed a new Board of Education, although a Board was appointed by ex-Mayor Sanford last Monday. The Mayor's Board is:

Dr. F. H. Batterman, secretary of the old Board of Health, was at the City Hall yesterday, and as he was about to leave the building Mayor Gleason caught sight of him.
"Stop that man," cried the Mayor to Policeman Buschman, who obeyed the order.
Dr. Batterman was searched, and in his pockets were found a number of official papers. The Mayor told the Doctor to keep away from the City Hall in the future unless he had business of a personal nature there.
Mayor Gleason has employed a young woman stenographer, Miss Murphy, the first and only applicant for the place.
Janitor Baker moved his household effects into the City Hall yesterday. He will have $75 a month and rent, gas, and coal free for the next three years, unless he incurs the displeasure of the Mayor.

GOT BURGLAR AND BOOTY. The Prisoner Exposes an Alleged Fence, Who Is Also Arrested.

Early yesterday morning Roundsman Doran of the Vernon avenue station, Brooklyn, ar-rested Edward Thomas Brown, a negro, 24 years old, of 84 Bartlett street, who had a large bag thrown over his shoulder. Brown was taken to the station house, where the bag was found to contain silverware, a suit of clothes, two women's dresses, and two cans of condensed milk. The suit was searched and in a pocket was found a card of Francis Fitzgerald, 2,152 Atlantic avenue. A detective went there and learned that early in the evening during the Attantic avenue. A detective went there and learned that early in the evening during the absence of Fitzgerald's family the property found in Brown's possession had been stolen. Fitzgerald identified the plunder.

The negro then admitted that he had robbed Fitzgerald's house. He admitted, too, that he was implicated in the burglary of Nixon C. Kerr's house at 470 Bradford street on New Year's eve, when about $200 worth of property was taken. Brown refused to reveal the names of his accomplices, but expressed a willingness to show the detective a "fence" where, he said, every burglar in Brooklyn found a ready market for plunder. The prisoner took the detective to the second-hand store of Louis Fruend at 791 Flushing avenue, and there Brown pointed out some of Kerr's property.

Fruend was arrested for receiving stolen goods. At the station house he denied that he kept a "fence," and said that he conducted an honest business and that he bought the goods from the negro in good faith. Both were locked up, and yesterday in the Lee Avenue Police Court Brown was arraigned on two charges of burglary and Fruend on the charge of receiving stolen goods. The negro pleaded guilty to both charges and was held for the Grand Jury. Fruend pleaded not guilty and was held in $1,000 ball for examination.

MURDERER GENZ'S CAT DEAD. The Man Who Killed Clara Arnim, His sweetheart, Sheds Many Tears.

Paul Genz, who is under sentence of death for the murder of his mistress, Clara Arnim. in Hoboken, on Aug. 28, 1894, has been weeping at intervals since New Year's Day for the death of a pet cat. Genz is in the county jail in Jersey City awaiting a decision of the Supreme Court on the writ of error which was taken in his case. The cat was given to him when it was a case. The cat was given to him when it was a kitten by one of the kespers, and he fed it and made a pet of it. He taught it a great many tricks, and it shared his cot with him. On the day before New Year's the cat, which had grown sleek and fat, escaped from the jail, and it is presumed that it celebrated the eve of the new year too enthusiastically, for the next morning it was found dead in the grounds outside of the jail. When Genz was informed of his pet's death he burst into tears.

Warden Mitchell will procure another cat and present it to Genz. present it to Genz.

ANNIE REISS RUNS AWAY. Not Seen Since Her Mother Surprised Her

Talking with Philip Konow. Annie Reiss, aged 15, has been missing from her home at 210 Broome street, Newark, since Friday evening, Dec. 27, when she went out to take a walk. She was followed by her mother and sister, and they saw her talking to Philip Konow, a young man whom her mother had cautioned her against. When Annie saw her mother approaching she fled through an alley. Her mother let a week go by before notifying the police. Meanwhile she questioned Konow, who said that he had not seen the girl since her who said that he had not seen the girl since her mother surprised her.

Mrs. Reiss consulted a negress who pretends to tell fortunes, and upon her advice went to the City Hospital. She did not find the girl there. Konow was questioned by the police yesterday, but he told a story which disarmed suspicion. It is believed merely that the girl is afraid of her mother and is hiding from her.

The Governor Will Soon Act on the Charges Filed with Him in November. ALBANY, Jan. 4.—Sheriff Tamsen is not yet out of the woods. He has escaped, through the disagreement of a jury, the punishment he de served for allowing the Post Office thieves to get out, but Gov. Morton will no longer ignore the charges filed with him over a month ago, which embrace several other counts in addi-tion to the one on which he was tried. The Governor said to-day that he intended soon to look into the matter and ascertain what he was called upon to do with the case. In view of the fact that the charges filed with him are more comprehensive than that on which the Sheriff was tried, Sheriff Tamsen may look any day for a letter in his mail, with the Executive Chamber stamp upon it, which shall inform him that the Governor has taken official cog-

Chamber stamp upon it, which shall inform him that the Governor has taken official cognizance of the charges against him and requests an answer within eight or ten days.

When the charges were filed Gov. Morton laid them aside to await the result of the judicial inquiry into the Sheriff's acts, for which the Grand Jury indicted him, and he urged a speedy trial of the case. The trial resulted in a division of the jury, with ten for acquittal and two for conviction, but as no noile pros, has been entered by the District Attorney, the charge still stands both before the courts and the Governor.

Omitting that count in the indictment which the people, if not the Grand Jury, have brought against the Sheriff, the charges of malfeasance in office, of taking illegal fees, of general incompetency displayed in appointing subordinates stupid or too corrupt to properly perform the duties of jailers, not to mention the officer who was arrested for intoxication, all are embodied in the document before the Governor, and he is still in duty bound to take cognizance of these charges, to the extent of calling upon the Sheriff for an answer. With the answer of the Sheriff before him the Governor can then decide whether he will accept it as sufficient to warrant his dismissing the charges, or will appoint a special commissioner to take testimony and report his findings. The Governor is anxious to dispose of the case before the hard work of the legislative session begins, and will take initial action during the present month.

For several years the firm has sought to extend its business and compete with the chesp labor of Japan, but no headway was made until the new machinery was invented. Then the matting was turned out with great rapidity, but even then it was found it was impossible to offer the product at the importer's price. It costs no more to transport the finished goods than it does the raw material, and investigation showed that even running expenses in America were not as cheap as the primitive methods of Japan or China, whereas the difference in the price of labor is very great. At present the duty on the goods is not enough to stop the Americans from going to Japan to manufacture, and the cheap labor is a great inducement.

KILLED BY THE MAPIA.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 4 .- The operations of the Mafia in the sugar districts of Louisians around New Orleans, which resulted in the killing this summer of nine Italians and the serious wounding of six others, for which crimes no one has been punished or arrested were resumed yesterday, when another Ital ian was mysteriously assassinated on Pike's Peak plantation in St. James's parish, very close to the place where the five members o close to the blace where the five members of the Giordano family were assassinated in July. The murdered man was found in the morning in the rear of the plantation, lying face downward, his back being full of buckshot, evidently fired from ambush by the assassin while the victim was unconscious of the presence of an enemy. In the pocket of the deceased was a paper containing the name of Joseph Capone and a summons to appear as a witness in the Defalco trial now before the District Court. It is supposed that the deceased is Gussippe Mauro, husband of the principal witness in the Defalco case, and the assassins murdered him to get him out of the way as a witness.

MISS TURNER MAKES AN ARREST.

Finds a Drunken Man Unable to Care for Himself and Takes Him In. A well-dressed, robust, good-looking woman, wearing gold-rimmed eyeglasses, and escorting a man dressed as a laborer, who was carrying a well-developed jag, attracted attention in Montgomery street, Jersey City, at a late hour on Friday night. It was an effort for the woman to keep the man on his feet, but she struggled manfully, and finally landed her charge in the Gregory street police station, and marched him up to the railing in front of the Sergeant's desk. "Here Captain," she said to Capt. Farrier, away. I picked him up on the street, and as here was no pollceman in sight I thought I had better bring him here. He is too drunk to take better bring him here. He is too drunk to take care of himself, and I think the best ting to do with him is to lock him up. It's too cold to leave him out in the street."

The prisoner grasped the railing to keep himself from failing, and the woman was hurrying out into the street when Capt. Farrier asked for her name. He thought that perhaps the man was her husband. She quickly disabused his mind of that idea, declaring that she was never married, and that she had brought the man in only for humanity's sake.

"Never mind my name," she said as she whisked out of the door.

The prisoner, who said he was Patrick Reardon of 183 Pavonia avenue, was locked up, and in the morning Police Justice Potts fined him $3. It was learned that the woman is Miss Marie Turner, and that she boards at 227 Warren street. She has been there only a week. She was not at home last night, but the woman who keeps the boarding house said she would not be surprised at anything Miss Turner might do. It was only yesterday at noon that he came in and told us how she had captured a highwayman who had stopped her and got her diamond ring.
